

Jonatan's Peer Review:

Carlos:

Carlos did his part of the project very early, which was really helpful since it put us on a good starting place. He was also very punctual to the meetings and often was the first person to show up and reserve a room for us. He had an interview in California which made it a bit difficult to communicate with him during some parts of the project, but that's not a problem which will be recurring.

John:

John was able to pick up a lot of the routing work that had to be done in Carlo's absence and was very helpful to other team mates when it came to debugging. There were some issues regarding attendance at the meetings at the beginning of the project but they've improved.

Sail:

Sail comes to every meeting and even stays late at personal expense (he lives in Harvard), and he also was very involved and had some critical inputs during the design section. He (and the team as a whole) should communicate earlier when it comes to our code specs however, since mismatching code led to extended debugging sessions.